TITLES.

It is a lovely hour as yet
Before the summer sun shall set.

The God of gladness sheds his parting smile.

And tenderest tints along their summits driven
Mark his going course and own the hues of Heaven.

And deepening thru silent spheres
Heaven over Heaven rose the night.

But lo! From high hymettus to the plain
The queen of night asserts her silent reign

Bright wanderer, fair coquette of Heaven.

Tonight;
No leaf will be shaken--
Whilst the dews of your melody scatter
Delight.

A tone
Of some world far from ours
Where music and moonlight and feeling
Are one.

Oh such a night, Dido----waft her
Love to come again to Carthage.

She gazed at clouds inwoven in the silent sky---
on Such a Night.

'Tis night when meditation bids us feel!

Soft stillness and the night
Become the touches of sweet harmony.

How sweet the moonlight sleeps upon this bank.

All was still, so soft in earth and air
You scarce would start to meet a spirit there.

Secure that nought of evil could delight
To walk in such a scene, on such a night.

O, that a chariot of cloud were mine!

The river nobly foams and flows----
in such a night.

All night the silence seems to flow.

It is the hour when lovers' vows
Seem sweet in every whispered word.

What time the mighty moon was gathering light,
Love faced the thymy plots of paradise.

And gentle winds and waters near
Make music to the lonely ear.

And on the wave is deeper blue.

The stars of night grew pallid, and the beams
Of morn descended on the ocean streams.

The morn in up again, the dewy morn
With breath all incense, and with cheek all bloom,
Laughing the clouds away with playful scorn.

Wake! for the sun beyond eastern height
Has chased the session of the stars from night.
